Dear [Redacted]

STAT

This note is a follow-up to our conversation (of about a week ago), which I greatly enjoyed.

Attached are copies of some documents that I suspect you will find interesting and perhaps of some use. It is fair to say that I have my fingerprints in them, so to speak, except for the article in Science News. In all of the news/media coverage of the public session on 7 January 1982, at the American Association for the Advancement of Science, this one article in Science News is the most accurate and the only one which is close at all. (The article from Nature is simply interesting.)

I believe that the one sentence summary I gave you verbally is an accurate overview of the basic core idea; if not, please let me know.

Thank you again for your most gracious hospitality and your keen insights. We ought to get together again, when you come to Washington again; be sure to bring your charming wife. I will let you know where I land at the National Security Council Staff on the 14th. Hope we can stay in touch.

Sincerely,

STAT
